

Lake & Lyndale

A decade of friendship, hundreds of live gigs, and thousands of miles on the road are part of what make this Nashville based band special. With Lake & Lyndale you can expect vibrant energy, a unique chemistry and a genuine sincerity at every show. Whether it's a live broadcast at Nashville's famed 3rd & Lindsley or a casual singalong for their YouTube series Covers in the Kitchen. Vocalist Channing Marie, guitarist Jon Krentz, drummer Tyler Kloewer, and bassist Eric Clifford are known for dynamic live shows that reflect their dedication to songwriting and musicianship. Named after cross streets in Minneapolis where they met, Lake & Lyndale's sound blends satisfying twang with genuine warmth: part roots-rock, part country-soul. Their sound is a culmination of diverse influences (Brandi Carlile, Kacey Musgraves, Dawes, Chris Stapleton) and musical backgrounds, their goal as songwriters is consistent: "We're just trying to make an honest connection with people," says Marie.

With singles in heavy rotation on Nashville's 89.5 Roots Radio and around the country, they're often compared to female-fronted, genre-defying acts like Fleetwood Mac. Marie's quick vibrato and emotive presence conjures Stevie Nicks, but with a breadth and power that evokes iconic country artists Carrie Underwood and Miranda Lambert. In 2018 Lake & Lyndale released their debut EP Habits, produced by Jon Estes. In July 2019 they dropped "There's a Weight" single along with a video featured in NPR's Slingshot Emerging Artist Spotlight. In June 2020, they released "Still Here". You can find their latest release, an acoustic EP called "In the Nude Vol.1" on all streaming platforms. They are currently working on new music to be released in 2022.

So unique and addictively compelling, L&L is led by pure, unique musical energy and a singer of soaring ability. Seeing them on stage you easily imagine the looser fun of 60s and 70s emerging artists.
-John Ettinger (Cold River Records)

This Entire Music Video Was Shot in One Take... Backwards
-Petapixel.com

Slingshot: 10 Nashville Artists To Add To Your Playlists - NPR

Lake and Lyndale's music defies genres and we love the sound that they bring to our songwriter radio channel. They've performed live at several of our sponsored events, and their vibe is second to none. Great artists, great people, and their EP "Habits" is a must-have for any playlist.
-Kyle Creamer (Co-Founder, Radio SoBro Nashville)

Taste Test: Lake & Lyndale find salvation in one-take video, 'There's a Weight'
-bsidesbadlands.com

www.lakeandlyndale.com

lakeandlyndale@gmail.com